CAMMACK RETIREMENT GROUP HOSTS GONZAGA UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

New York, NY & Wellesley, MA: December 1, 2015 – Cammack Retirement Group, (“Cammack Retirement”), a leading provider of investment advisory, consulting, and actuarial services hosted students from Gonzaga University’s Career Center earlier this fall.

As part of an annual trip called the “New York Trek,” a group of 15 highly-motivated finance students from Gonzaga University visited finance companies in Manhattan. The goal of the trip is to give students visibility into the various aspects of the finance industry, assist with networking and provide a sense of what working in New York City is like.

During their time at Cammack Retirement, the students toured the office, learned about the services provided to their university and the differing roles within the organization. Both recent college graduates and more experienced professionals were on hand from the Cammack Retirement team to share their experience job searching in the industry and working at Cammack Retirement Group.

“The students were exceptional – they had fantastic questions about what we did, what we were looking for in candidates, and why we liked working here” said Emily Wrightson, Consultant, Cammack Retirement Group.

“Most of the students who have shared feedback with me about the trip said that Cammack Retirement was their favorite stop” said Meredith Aronson, Employer & Alumni Relations Manager, Gonzaga University. “Thank you so much for being such a generous host – I look forward to working with the team on future visits!” said Aronson.
